

Ixt: the Program

19th June 2002

1 Introduction

2 User interface

2.1 Starting Ixt

2.1.1 Command-line options

-d, -n, -s, -l

2.1.2 Initialization files

2.1.3 Environment variables

Uses HOME and LXSCRIPTS.

2.2 lxt commands and command-line editing

2.2.1 Menus and sub menus (modules)

2.2.2 lxt command prompt

2.2.3 Command help

2.2.4 Pointer to command quick-reference

3 Loading texts

3.1 Introduction

3.2 Stop (omit) lists

3.3 Listing and printing

3.4 Commands

4 Roots and forms of words

4.1 Introduction

4.2 Forms tables

4.3 Commands

5 Classifications and categories of words

5.1 Introduction

5.2 Category tables

5.2.1 Loading

5.2.2 Dumping (Printing)

5.3 Commands

6 Ranges and counters

6.1 Introduction

6.2 Adding, deleting, altering, and mapping ranges

6.3 Range expressions

6.4 Commands

7 Outputting results

7.1 Introduction

7.2 The “last” command

7.3 Shared flags

2

7.4 Output Formats

7.5 Sort order

7.6 Count (limiting record numbers)

7.7 Feeding output into other programs

7.7.1 CSV (Comma Separated Values)